POLLAK TO PUT NEW MILL IN USE MONDAY

Ceremony To Mark Completion of New Step in Plant Improvement Program.

The latest step in the three-year expansion and improvement program at the Marion plant of the Pollak Steel Co. will be completed Monday when the first bar of steel is sent through the new 16-inch finishing mill.

Work on the new mill has been underway for a year.

Company officials from the home office in Cincinnati will be here for a ceremony to mark the first operation of the new equipment. The switch to place the mill in operation will be thrown by Mayor Harry L. Dowler. The christening ceremony will be performed by Julian A. Pollak of Cincinnati, company president. He will break a bottle of water from the cooling system which is a part of the new mill. The ceremony will be concluded by Albert C. Feihl of Cincinnati, vice president and general manager of the company.

To Make Trial Run

After a trial run about 6:30 a. m. the Pollak mill's veteran head rollers, Martin Burke and James Ruby, will handle the first bar of steel going into the new mill. This will come as the christening ceremony gets under way between 7 and 8 a. m.

The new mill replaces the old finishing mill which has been in use since the Pollak plant came to Marion from Cambridge late in 1919.

Company officials said today it will definitely expand production of the Marion plant, but they will be unable to estimate the percentage of increase until the mill has been in operation for some time. Cost of the mill has not yet been definitely determined.

Installation of the mill has been under the supervision of Jess Rech, superintendent of the plant, and James R. Duffy and Lester Stabnor, engineers from the Cincinnati office.

Second Major Improvement

It is the second major improvement made as part of the three-year expansion program. The first was the completion about a year ago of an addition to the plant, 88 by 260 feet in dimensions, to expand the facilities of the finishing and shipping departments. Other steps in the program, which will completely rehabilitate the plant, now are being worked out by company officials.

The equipment for the mill is of new design and is expected to result in better quality of the finished product as well as ease of operation.

Installation of the mill required construction of a complete new water system. The mill requires the pumping of 2,100 gallons of water a minute for cooling and lubrication purposes. The water system includes a 100,000 gallon reservoir. The system is of the recirculating type with provisions for settling out impurities collected as the water passes through the mill.

Finished Products

The Pollak plant has had an annual capacity of between 50,000 and 60,000 tons of finished steel. This came from a 16-inch breakdown mill and the finishing mill which is replaced by the new equipment.

The new mill will turn out concrete reinforcing bars, steel fence posts, small structural steel shapes and items for agricultural needs.

Although the executive offices of the company and a fabricating mill are located at Cincinnati the Marion plant is the principal manufacturing facility of the company, officials said.

The plant has been a Marion industry since moving here in 1919 from Cambridge. It was taken over by the Pollak company Dec. 1 of that year.

Present employment is approximately 400 men who are affiliated with Local 2721, United Steel Workers of America.

PEACETIME PROBLEMS PUT UP TO C. OF C.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Peacetime problems, more controversial than those of the war, have created an "overpowering need for business statesmanship," President C. E. Weaver told the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today.

In his annual address to the Chamber's 54th annual meeting, Weaver declared that the organization "must reawaken a fuller appreciation of America."

Be "Pro" American!

"We must be 'pro' America before we are 'anti' anything," he said. He outlined these five major problems for the members' attention during the coming year:

LIONS CLUB BAZAAR TO OPEN TONIGHT

Annual Event To Be Held in Junior Fair Building.

The three-day annual Marion Lions club bazaar is scheduled to get underway tonight in the Junior Fair 4-H building at the Marion fairgrounds, with games and amusements of all kinds, several special prizes each night and a number of concessions. Doors are to open each night, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at 7:30.

Preparations were completed by the club members Wednesday night. The roadway from the Fairground street entrance to the Junior Fair building will be lighted, adequate parking facilities have been arranged, and the room will be heated.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be used entirely by the club for civic service projects.

Each of the three nights, from 9 to 10, Miss Inez Kraner the city public school nurse, will be present to operate the Keystone Telebinocular eye testing instrument, purchased several years ago by the club for use in the city schools, and will give free eye examinations to persons wishing to have it.

The Lions club at the present time, is contemplating the purchase of an audiometer, a device for testing the hearing. Final plans for purchasing the instrument are pending the outcome of research which is being held on the instrument at Ohio State university.

Funds are also used to carry on the sight conservation program as in the past, to sponsor a casting tournament in the spring, and to promote the soap box derby as an annual affair. The club is planning to revive the casting tournament this year, having discontinued it during the war.

First Snow of Season Falls in Marion Today

The approaching Christmas season was highlighted today with the first snowfall, the flakes coming down for a few minutes about 9:45 this morning, with the official temperature reading at noon at 43 degrees. However, no trace of the snow could be found on the ground afterwards as the sun was shining brightly.

The maximum temperature for the period between 8 a. m. yesterday and 8 a. m. today was 46, and the minimum 33, which is a few degrees colder than that for the same time a year ago when the maximum was 59 and the minimum 35.

DELAY ON TRUMAN'S PROPOSAL OPPOSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Opposition cropped out in both Republican and Democratic ranks today to any plan for delaying congressional action on President Truman's request for standby rationing and price control power.

The opposition was prompted by the announcement of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that the senate-house economic committee which he heads will shunt aside these two proposals to take a look first at other parts of Mr. Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program.

Two other members of the committee, Senator Flanders (R-Vt) and Sparkman (D-Ala), said they are against any such procedure. While stressing this stand should not be interpreted as a full endorsement of the presidential program, they said they believe the controversial rationing and price control proposals should be debated during the current special session, even though they appear to be doomed.

This whole matter was slated for further discussion today at a meeting of the senate Republican policy committee. Taft, also chairman of this group, said plans for putting a $597,000,000 aid for Europe bill before the senate also would be discussed by the policy committee.

MEYERS DENIES STORY OF HUGE WAR PROFITS

Says He Never Took Money from Dummy Officials Except To Repay Loans.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers swore to senate investigators today that he never received any money from officials of Aviation Electric Co. except in repayment of loans.

In an emotional voice, Meyers said:

"I want to say without equivocation that earlier testimony of Mr. Lamarre and Mr. Readnower is entirely false regarding any payments to me except the repayment of loans I made to the corporation."

B. H. Lamarre and T. E. Readnower have testified they were only "dummy" officers for Aviation Electric, that Meyers was the real owner, and that the general took $150,000 out of the firm's war profits, most of it by requiring them to "kick back" the bulk of the salaries to him.

On the stand again today Lamarre told senators Meyers promised to help him make some "real money" if he would lie to cover up the general's wartime relations with Aviation Electric Co.

Unshaken by Questioning

Lamarre made this statement as he remained unshaken under a barrage of questions from counsel for Meyers on his story that the general took $150,000 out of the company's profits on war subcontracts.

Lamarre was president of Aviation Electric Co., but has testified it was secretly owned by Meyers, former deputy chief of Army Air Force procurement.

The senate war investigating subcommittee has spent a week inquiring into Meyers' part in affairs of the company. From Lamarre and others it has heard a story of company officials ostensibly getting big salaries but required to "kick back" most of the money to Meyers.

As the senate committee went ahead with its inquiry, a prospective department of justice crackdown on income tax charges hung over Meyers. Attorney General Tom Clark said last night that he will ask indictment of Meyers as soon as the senate group winds up its hearings.

Lamarre said he and Meyers worked out an account of their relations which they hoped would explain away Meyers' profits from the company.

Lamarre said the dapper general told him "the only way we would avoid risks to both of us was to tell the same story."

Attorney General Clark made his disclosure about the justice department's interest in the general's income during an interview last night at Indianapolis.

Want Action Withheld

He said the Ferguson committee had asked the department to withhold action until the investigation is over. When the committee was finished, Clark said, "we will go before a grand jury in the proper district."

Called back to the stand when the committee resumed today, Lamarre first replied to a series of written questions submitted

"Happy Is the Bride" Spoken As Sunlight Pierces Dark Sky

By INEZ ROBB
International News Service Writer

LONDON, Nov. 20—England's "fairy princess"—destined future queen of England—was married to her prince charming at Westminster Abbey this morning in a scene of traditional magnificence and great splendor.

A thin English sun on this gray November day did its best to struggle through the clouds as the royal bride and her bridegroom left the Abbey.

Princess Elizabeth had been glamorous throughout and the groom, Philip Mountbatten, now Duke of Edinburgh and a royal highness of the British realm, was as handsome and sedate as could be.

An old woman among the spectators outside the Abbey remembered the old adage and cried "Happy is the bride the sun shines on" when the pale orb showed itself through the murky sky.

Sketch and description of royal bride's wedding dress on Page 8. Other pictures of bride and bridegroom on Page 12.

No bride could have looked more radiant than the slim petite girl who left the Abbey clinging tightly to the hand of her bridegroom as she had clung to it from the moment in the solemn ceremony when the venerable Archbishop of Canterbury said:

"Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

Frenzied cheers from thousands of her adoring countrymen and women lining the streets for a glimpse of the princess sped her into the hushed Abbey before Elizabeth promised to "Love, cherish and obey" the man she has married.

Responses in Low Tones

The responses of both bride and groom were so low as to be inaudible to all but the few members of the royal family and their royal guests seated in neat rows of white chairs on each side of the Abbey's sacrarium (official spelling for what is commonly known as sanctuary.)

There listening intent and tearless were her mother, Queen Elizabeth, and her wonderful old grandmother, Queen Mother Mary, who didn't disappoint the crowds by wearing any of these foolish new hats.

The dowager queen appeared in a typical "Queen Mary hat" at her granddaughter's fabulous wedding.

This dreary gray land of hard austerity, this battle-scarred and suffering world, dropped away for an hour in Westminster Abbey.

The king, in his serious intent to keep the marriage of his daughter on the nation's austere level, was defeated in the end by the ancient pomp of kings and the traditions of the Abbey.

More than half the crowned heads of Europe witnessed the historic ceremony from box seats in the "sanctuary."

There also were crown princes, princesses, regents and a slew of lesser and minor royalty to make a field day at any place but in the Abbey this forenoon.

Guests Arrive Early

The doors of the Abbey on Parliament Square where the buildings are still pock-marked by the scars of the last war didn't open until 10:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. EST), but long before that the guests had begun to gather.

Befurred ladies and men in silk skimmers were there as soon after breakfast as they could make it.

At 9:30 a. m. the Abbey had an ancient, cold gray look.

Only the high altar, emblazoned under the weight of choice pieces of the Abbey gold plate (but not as much as eventually will be displayed when Elizabeth is crowned) was truly festive.

The only floral decorations in the vast Abbey were two alabaster vases, one on each side of the altar.

Certainly the floral bill for decorations in the Abbey won't strain his majesty's purse as they consisted only of two bouquets six feet high of white lilies, white and pink carnations and pale mauve chrysanthemums.

So far as delirious public approval of the affair goes, there just wasn't any let-up.

When Elizabeth and Philip got back to Buckingham palace in the gloriously-caparisoned glass coach after the Abbey ceremony they found a tremendous crowd breaking through police and military cordons in the forecourt that just would not be held back.

Out they came on the balcony overlooking the front palace yard and the long tree-lined mall. And there they remained for a long four minutes in response to cries of "We want the princess" before they withdrew.

Mounted police reinforcements had to be called into action for the second time in the historic day to keep the crowds in some semblance of order.

The wedding, whose split-second timing had been rehearsed tirelessly, ran liked greased lightning.

A Few Minor Bobbles

But even at royal nuptials there are unforeseen bobbles that may appear funny only afterwards.

It was King George himself who had to stoop to pick up his daughter's magnificent train as she left the sacrarium steps to go to the

CALLS SESSION OF ASSEMBLY

Legislature To Meet Early Next Month To Correct Error in Law.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Ohio state legislators, who adjourned their biennial session only last June, will return to the state capital early next month because of a legislative error.

Gov. Herbert decided late yesterday a special session was necessary after the state supreme court held a legislative bobble stripped the highway department of gasoline tax funds for road construction.

The governor met with Speaker of the House William O'Neill (R-Marietta), Senate Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore (R-Akron) and other key legislators before announcing a special session would be held.

The exact date of the session will be determined at another conference Monday, but Herbert announced that it definitely will be "sometime in the first two weeks of December."

Primary Purpose

"I am calling the special session primarily to clarify the gas tax law," the governor continued. "We will decide on other matters to be considered at the meeting Monday."

Other matters which may be covered in Herbert's official call for the session include:

1. Elimination of difficulties arising after Jan. 1 when the new constitutional amendment limiting the one-cent a gallon liquid fuel tax to highway and street purposes becomes effective.

2. Appropriation of more funds for the state welfare department because of increased costs in clothing and food for wards in state institutions and a drop in food production on institution farms.

3. Clarification of the flat $10 auto license fee law which the legislature ordered effective April 1. In the past, new licenses have gone on sale March 1 and there is some question whether the state can charge the $10 flat fee prior to April 1.

4. A request for additional

Santa Claus Sends News That Mrs. Santa Is Coming With Him

What a week it has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, getting ready for the visit to Marion. And he has a big surprise for all the boys and girls of Marion and the community—somebody's coming with him. Who?—Santa's letter will disclose the news.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
MARION, OHIO

Dear Friends:

Just a few lines to let you know that almost everything here at the North Pole is in readiness for my visit to Marion, Ohio.

By the way, did I tell you Mrs. Claus is coming with me? Well she is, but for only the day of the parade. I think she just wants to see that I am comfortably settled for my visit there.

You know, even Santa Claus must eat and sleep sometime, and I was wondering if you could make the arrangements for this. I know I could walk into any place in Marion and be made at home, but I am saving that for Christmas Eve.

From your last letter telling me of the welcome that is planned for me, the decorations, parade and everything I can't wait to get there.

Tell all the good people of Marion "hello" and that I am looking forward to seeing them Saturday, Nov. 22.

FRENCH ARMY CLASS CALLED

Military Strength Bolstered; Blum Prepares To Head Government.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 20—France recalled to the colors part of the 1947 military class to bring the army up to "normal strength" today as President Vincent Auriol looked to Leon Blum to form a strong, stable government.

The recall order, broadcast over the national radio chain, brought about 140,000 more troops into the army at a time when the government was trying to stem a spreading strike wave. Half of the 1947 contingent of troops, not due to be mobilized until spring, was freed a few months ago to provide manpower for industry and agriculture.

Auriol was reported to have completed his consultations with party leaders who flocked to the Elysees palace until late last night after the resignation of Premier Paul Ramadier and again throughout this morning.

Auriol invited Socialist elder statesman Blum to lunch with him and usually well-informed sources said the president would commission him to try to form a widely-based government—probably with all but the Communists and De Gaullists represented.

Approximately half a million workers were reported on strike throughout France as Ramadier quit. Special security guards were posted in Paris and other tense French cities to prevent possible violence. Coal mines, automobile factories and Mediterranean ports were tied up by communist-led strikes. A millers' strike led to fears of a bread shortage.

All the strikers involved in the current labor tieup are members of unions affiliated with the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor. They are asking, on orders of the general confederation, an increase in the minimum monthly wage of 7,000 francs (about $58) to 10,800 francs (about $90) and a 25 per cent salary boost pending negotiations for the increase.

COMMUNIST RAID MEETS RAIN OF FIRE

By International News Service

ROME, Nov. 20—Communists who raided a Christian Democratic headquarters in Gravina, a town in Apulia province, were met today with a rain of gunfire from one of the party office defenders.

At least one of the leftists was slain and three others wounded, whereupon a mob of 500 enraged Communists rushed the officer and tried to lynch the defender, who was saved by police.

Communist-induced violence spread to numerous towns in Sicily today as the Italian government struck to purge "Red cells" from the nation's police forces after warning it is "vigilant" against possible revolution.

Several thousand persons, mostly workers from nearby sulphur mines, rioted at Caltanisetta and virtually seized the city despite police efforts to halt their "invasion." The town was the center of Sicilian disturbances.

The gravity of the continuing violence was indicated by an emergency conference between Premier Alcide de Gasperi and President Enrico de Nicola to devise means of dealing with the outbreak.

Elizabeth, Phillip Exchange Vows In Ancient Abbey.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 20—Princess Elizabeth, heiress to the ancient throne of the British empire, became the bride today of the newly named Duke of Edinburgh, Lt. Philip Mountbatten of the royal navy.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, intoned the words: "I now pronounce that they are man and wife" at 11:45 a. m. (6:45 a. m. EST) as the bride and groom knelt before the altar in Westminster Abbey.

In the traditional words of the Church of England marriage service, Princess Elizabeth and the duke promised to love and to cherish each other for better or for worse, in sickness and in health until death. Their responsive "I wills" to the archbishop's questions were barely audible to the crowded abbey.

Nearly 3,000 persons—kings, queens, bluebloods and commoners—witnessed the ceremony.

As the two left the Abbey, churchbells rung out, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of the waiting thousands outside.

Prime Minister Attlee and his predecessor, Winston Churchill, smiled at the young couple as they passed up the aisle after signing the marriage register in the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor, founder of the Abbey.

When the princess and her groom entered the royal coach for the return trip to Buckingham palace, the relief of the two young pages—Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent—became evident. They had been having some difficulty with the princess' train.

On the way back to the palace, both the princess and the duke, who received his royal title from King George VI last night, waved at the throngs of people along the route. Many of these had waited all night and been soaked in an intermittent drizzle.

Account of Ceremony

The 21-year-old princess was radiant with happiness as she appeared for the ceremony in a mist of dewy white satin. Her gown sparkled with a thousand lights reflected, softened and shaded in a delicate embroidery of crystal and pearls.

Waiting for her in the lantern, at the foot of the steps to the sacrarium, was the handsome, 26-year-old bridegroom, attired in the uniform of a lieutenant of the royal navy, in which he served during and since the war.

In the church, the nave, the choir and the transepts shone with royal magnificence—a scene of high pomp and solemn religion, reflecting gold, purple, crimson and rose shadings from the walls.

Kneeling on pillows on the steps of the red and gold sanctuary, the royal couple followed the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, through the traditional marriage ceremony of the Church of England.

As Philip and the princess spoke their responsive "I wills" and repeated their vows to love, honor and comfort each other in sickness and in health forever, their voices were broadcast to a listening world.

"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder," intoned the archbishop, primate of all England.

Words That Sealed Bond

Gazing out over the congregation, he continued:

"Forasmuch as Philip and Elizabeth, Alexandra Mary, have consented together in holy wedlock, and have witnessed the same before God and this company, and thereto have given and pledged their troth either to the other, and have declared the same by giving and receiving of a ring, and by joining of hands; I pronounce that they be man and wife together, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

Thus another scene was added to the richly illuminated pages of English history, as two great-great grandchildren of Queen Victoria were linked in matrimony.

At the palace reception the couple cut the six-foot, 600-pound wedding cake with the sword the duke, attired in his royal navy uniform, had worn at the wedding. Europe's royalty toasted them in champagne.

Two Balcony Appearances

The couple made two appearances on a balcony to receive the plaudits of thousands jamming the mall, St. James and Green Park.

They left Buckingham palace at 3:59 p. m. for Waterloo station, in a coach drawn again by four of the Windsor greys. The multitude clustered about the palace thundered their best wishes, and the king appeared on the palace balcony to wave the couple a farewell. Ahead of them was

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on its way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as overdressed wiseacres, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

MARION K. OF C. TO HONOR STATE DEPUTY

Will Initiate Class Named for Thomas E. Andrews.

Plans for the initiation of a class of candidates on Dec. 7 and other activities were made at a meeting of Marion Council No. 671, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday night. The class will be named the Thomas E. Andrews State Deputy class, in honor of Mr. Andrews, state deputy and a member of the Marion council.

It was announced that Anthony Beiler of Cincinnati, district deputy, would take part in a memorial service honoring members whose deaths occurred during the last year, to be held at the next meeting.

Plans were discussed for taking part in the state bowling tournament to be held at Cincinnati starting Feb. 21, next year and also for entering teams in the national bowling tournament to Dayton next March. Action was taken nominating Raymond McFarland of the local council for reelection as a director of the state K. of C. Bowling association. William Daugherty was appointed to organize a team in the local council and to take steps for the organization of a league among the neighboring councils.

Harding Junior Class Play Set for Tonight

The first performance of the Harding High school junior class play, "Shiny Nose," will be given tonight in the Central Junior High school auditorium beginning at 8:15. It is under the direction of Marion O. Chase, speech instructor at Harding.

A program of music by the Harding High school orchestra under the direction of Homer Huffman, instrumental music supervisor in the city schools, will precede the play.

The play is scheduled to be given Friday night at the same time.

ROBBERS GET $1,700

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—The Exchange Coin Machine Co. was held up yesterday by three gunmen who forced five male employes to disrobe before they fled. Delbert E. Heller of Lancaster, an employe, said he was robbed of $1,700. The bandits also got a $1,000 diamond ring and an undetermined amount of cash from the office strongbox.

"Jesus and Psychiatry" Subject of Church Talk

Mrs. Irene M. Ihde of Paterson, N. J., musician, lecturer and former missionary to Japan, who is conducting services this week at Prospect Street Methodist church in keeping with Christian Fellowship week, spoke on "Jesus and Psychiatry" at the service last night.

For her special organ selection preceding the service, Mrs. Ihde played "Andantino" from "Moonlight and Roses," "Ave Maria," and "The Rosary." During her service, she sang "I Love a Little Cottage."

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Robert Thomas, and special music was by the Howald girls' quartet of Waldo, Ona, Anna, Margaret and Marilyn Howald. They played accordions and sang "My Sheep Know My Voice" and "In My Heart There Rings a Melody." The prelude and offertory were played by Mrs. Robert Rice, church organist.

Mrs. Ihde's subject tonight will be "The Great Drama of Life," and preceding the ceremony, she will repeat the "Poet and Peasant" overture which she played earlier in the week.

Shoes for Destitute People Overseas Asked In Marion "Share Your Thanksgiving" Service

Labeled as farfetched would be reports that Marionites, as Thanksgiving approaches, are planning menus consisting of thin soup of grass or nettles for the day. Equally ridiculous would be a tale that children have forgotten toys and are longing only for a pair of shoes. In Marion, preparations are for special foods on holiday tables, and parents are concerned that there may be fewer toys available for Christmas than were to be had last year. Far different is the outlook in less fortunate parts of the world.

Contribution of Shoes Asked

With these particular thoughts in mind, a theme of "Share Your Thanksgiving" was chosen for the annual union Thanksgiving service at First Presbyterian church on Thanksgiving eve. A special project, call for 1,000 pairs of usable shoes, has been devised as one way in which this sharing may be accomplished. The plan is in charge of the social action committee of the Marion County Council of Churches which this year is sponsoring the union service. It is asked that each person who attends the service bring to the church at that time at least one pair of shoes.

The speaker for the service will be Rev. James Flint, a Congregational minister and field worker for Church World Service just returned from a tour of inspection of the needs of Europe.

Shoes Urgently Needed

It has been stated that in addition to the scarcity of food, shoes are one of the most desperately needed items in Europe and Asia today, and that in some sections but one person in three has a pair of shoes, and it is common for family members to take turn in wearing a commonly owned pair. In addition to the pairs to be brought to the Thanksgiving service, it is requested that those who cannot attend and wish to make contributions take them to their own churches before the union service date. It is requested that shoes be clean, in fairly good shape, and tied together in pairs. Rev. Eldred Johnston, chairman of the Council of Churches social action committee, stated that it is hoped the people of Marion will begin immediately to collect shoes for this cause.

Careful Distribution Assured

All shoes collected will be carefully distributed overseas by personal representatives of the Church World Service, organization in which churches are uniting for overseas relief, he said, adding that "Church World Service distributes material where the need is greatest, regardless of class, creed or nationality."

At the union Thanksgiving service also, a recently made moving picture, "This Road We Walk," depicting actual condition in Europe today, will be shown.

20 New Automobiles Sold Here in Week

Transportation vehicles sold by Marion dealers for the week of Nov. 13 to Nov. 19 included 20 cars and five trucks, figures in the office of Clerk of Courts Calvin Oborn, show. Listed last week were 24 cars and one truck and the week previous 39 cars and five trucks were sold.

There have been white blackbirds, white redbirds, and white bluebirds.

WESLEY CHAPEL SERVICE

Thanksgiving service for the Wesley Chapel church of the Marseilles Methodist church will be Sunday at 9:30 a. m., Rev. Edgar B. Dean, pastor, announced. Worship service at the Marseilles church Sunday morning will be at 11. There will be no preaching at the Salem church Sunday, it was announced.

Plain Talk

SECRETARY MARSHALL'S Chicago speech is another example of the plain talk to which diplomats resort to these days. There was a time when such plain speaking would have been considered too strong even for an ultimatum. Today it is the only kind diplomats use.

The secretary's speech probably sets the tone for the Big Four ministers' meeting opening next week. Their assistants have been at work in London for some time on preparatory plans but reportedly have been unable to agree on anything besides the time of day.

The probable course of the ministers' meeting already has been predicted. There will be a day of haggling, then the Russian spokesmen, keeping a straight face, will propose complete withdrawal of all occupying forces, a proposal we will not accede to because its good faith will be questioned. So the meeting will disband without a peace treaty for Germany, without an agreement on its future, and with new charges and countercharges by all concerned.

The meeting may have an altogether different outcome but all postwar negotiations involving Russia have run true to form so far. There is no reason to believe a change is due next week.

The Answer Isn't No

THE political strategy of the Trumanites in asking for a controlled economy shrieks for understanding.

They hope the defenders of free enterprise will do exactly what they've been doing and nothing else; namely, that they will refuse to give the Truman administration authority to control prices, wages and supplies, then will refuse to offer any alternative.

That will leave Mr. Truman and his backers with all the talking points. It will put the defenders of free enterprise right where they were in 1932, with nothing to offer but the continued absence of any solution to the people's problems. Mr. Truman is playing shrewd politics. He is inviting his opposition to hand him a ready-made issue for 1948.

The leftists and their political stooges have found a potent talking point in inflation. They have been assured by the inevitability of large-scale exports to foreign countries that no deflation is imminent. They obviously intend to make the most of the potent talking point that the only way to stabilize prices is by throttling free enterprise; they have found allies in the party politicians whose chief job is to win reelection for Mr. Truman.

Defenders of free enterprise cannot isolate themselves from party politics. They must propose an alternative in the 1948, or accept one. A party with nothing to offer but rejection of another party's talking points is in a hopeless position, a political truism that has been tested in 1932, 1936, 1940 and 1944.

There is an alternative to a state-controlled economy. Mr. Truman himself has mentioned it: It is an economy controlled by the judgment of its members—an economy whose supporters have enough composite intelligence not to rush headlong into their own downfall.

If Americans who want to save enterprise know which side their enterprise is buttered on, they will not let themselves be maneuvered into the fatal position of having no alternative to state control but the absence of any control at all.

French Football

FRENCH cabinet ministers operate under the unlimited substitution rule used in American football. Reynaud, Herriot, Ramadier, Blum, etc.,—all get chances to call the plays which keep France in the game.

That's Leon Blum warming up on the sidelines. He's a reliable left wingback who can also kick and pass. He may be waved in at any minute to replace Paul Ramadier, who is being rushed in the scrimmages by the opposing Red team.

Once they get into the game, the premiers on the bench have a thankless task. The individualistic French don't run well from the T-formation in use this year. They outweigh and outman the Reds but sometimes they are outrushed.

Meanwhile, on the sidelines in a clean uniform, untried but highly recommended, sits Chuck de Gaulle, who's built for high knee-action rather than for speed. If he gets into the game a lot of people are going to have the wind knocked out of them.

Laski's Pink-Colored Glasses

THAT man Harold Laski, who makes American flesh creep with his pinkish notions, says the United States hasn't reached political maturity and therefore can't understand Europe's problems. Hence, instead of understanding about the Soviet Union, socialism, statism, the labor party and other mysteries of European life, Americans are preoccupied with a kind of modern witch-hunt for Communists.

Laski himself would be immature, however, if he weren't thankful for this immaturity in the attitude of the United States. If it were otherwise, Great Britain would have no loan, there would be no Marshall plan and no interim aid. There would have been no war to end wars, no war to save the democratic way of life, no destroyer deal, bundles for Britain, lend-lease, or bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Speaking of Police State Economics.

IN THE Nov. 17 issue of "The CIO News" appears a letter from Philip Murray, head of the CIO, addressed to all members of congress. This letter contains a program for restoration of controls over the economy of the American people by the President. It favors what President Truman himself referred to as police state economics. Murray's program contains four points which I here quote;

"(1) Reestablishing price control and rationing of food, clothing, and other necessities of life.

"(2) Instituting a tax program to recapture speculative and excess profits.

"(3) Eliminating margins on the grain exchanges.

"(4) Conducting an all-out attack upon monopoly and its attendant artificial curtailment of production, creation of scarcity for profit, artificial spiralling of prices and general strangulation of our economy."

Now A Comparison

This issue was out and Murray's letter was in the hands of members of congress prior to the delivery of the President's speech. It is important to note that in his speech the President made 10 points. Compare Murray's four-point program with Truman's ten-point program

"1. Authorize 'consumer rationing on products in short supply which basically affect the cost of living.'

"2. Authorize 'price ceilings on products in short supply which basically affect the cost of living or industrial production and to authorize such wage ceilings as are essential to maintain the necessary price ceilings.'

"3. Extend and strengthen rent control.

"4. Authorize allocation and inventory control of scarce, cost-of-living commodities.

"5. Authorize regulation of speculative trading on commodity exchanges.

"6. Restore consumer credit controls and restrain inflationary bank credit.

"7. Extend and strengthen export controls.

"8. Continue authority to allocate transportation facilities and equipment.

"9. Provide measures to induce livestock and poultry marketing so as to obtain the most efficient use of grain.

"10. Allow the agriculture department to expand a program for encouraging conservation practices and authorize measures intended to step up foreign food production."

Obvious Similarity

They look very close to each other. They look as though they had a common inspiration. The President, for instance, says:

"The harsh effects of price inflation are clear. They are felt by wage earners, farmers and businessmen. Wage earners are finding that bigger pay checks this year buy less than smaller pay checks bought last year. Despite generalities about high farm prices, the income of many farm families cannot keep up with the rising costs of the things they buy. Small businessmen are being squeezed by rising costs. Even those who are well off are asking: 'How long can it last? When is the break coming?'"

But the President does not say anywhere in his speech that the administration, his administration, operating by his decisions, is increasing inflation by purchasing scarce commodities for export abroad. The government still exercises priorities—"moral priorities"—namely that government orders come first. As long as that is so, inflation must continue while goods are scarce. In a word, as long as the government, by its economic policies and its purchases, makes scarce goods scarcer, inflation must continue.

Inflation Defined

For what, after all, is inflation? It is the shortage of goods while those who desire or need the goods possess the purchasing power to obtain the goods at increasingly higher prices. As long as the purchasing power is available, those who possess it will seek the goods, even on the black market. When the goods are no longer available anywhere, at any price, the inflation may even become devastating.

President Truman's answer to that apparently is that the people should save instead of buy. "... Every dollar that is saved instead of spent is a dollar fighting against inflation. In order to encourage additional savings, the government should intensify its vigorous efforts to sell savings bonds." In a word, the government will issue more and more bonds, increase the national debt, and even print more paper money secured by nothing—as a solution for inflation. He would solve inflation by inflation.

Truman, who wants congress to spend billions to encourage Europe to adopt American economic procedures, also wants to introduce—and simultaneously—European inflationary and even totalitarian methods in America.

Corset Makers Taking a Lacing

Demand is at an all-time high, but rising production costs are a problem, according to exhibitors at last week's Corset and Brassiere show in New York.

It's man-bites-dog news when the corset industry feels the pinch.

Foundation garment manufacturers have made every effort to reduce their production costs. But even corset material can be stretched just so far.

As a consequence, smaller figures seem likely to run into larger ones. The two-way stretch moguls are for slimmer waists, not profits.

And unless it raises its prices soon, the corset industry shortly may find itself in worse shape than its customers.

It's a discouraging outlook, to be sure, but somehow I find it refreshing that something is putting the squeeze on the nation's corset makers ... instead of vice versa.

Politics and Statesmanship

By Walter Lippmann

BETWEEN the first part of the President's message, which dealt with the European recovery program, and the second part which dealt with the domestic inflation, there is a sharp difference in purpose and in quality of mind. Two different sets of advisers, two different standards, are only too evident.

On the European recovery program Mr. Truman was the President working with Congress, regardless of party, so that "the actions of this government" may "be of a stature to match the dignity and influence of the United States in world affairs." But on inflation, he was, alas, the politician and the candidate trying to put the other party in a hole.

This attempt to mix statesmanship with partisan politics is most unfortunate, and a great deal of good sense will be required to undo the harm that has been done. For by injecting a partisan calculation into the situation, Mr. Truman has made it much more difficult for congress and for the people to deal wisely and dispassionately both with the European recovery program and with the domestic inflation.

The partisan monkey wrench was in the last two of Mr. Truman's ten points: The request for authority to set up consumer rationing, and to impose price and wage ceilings.

Mr. Truman knew perfectly well when he made these two requests that this congress cannot grant them without an abject confession that the whole of the Republican party, and a considerable part of the Democratic party, have made a colossal mistake and are responsible for the high cost of living.

Reverses Position

A month ago he himself characterized these measures as those of a "police state" (which incidentally they are not) and is said to have told members of Congress privately that he would decline to fix prices. Yet, suddenly, and without consulting Congress, he is asking Congress to do something which he knows Congress will not do and that he himself is on record as saying he would not want them to do.

If this is not partisan politics in an election year—a device to make the Republicans refuse him powers which he does not wish to exercise—then what is it?

On the merits, it may be said, I think, that consumer rationing, price and wage fixing, could not cure or even check the inflation; they could only divert the pressure from the few controlled commodities to the much greater number of uncontrolled commodities.

If the price ceilings are really effective—if there is no big black market—on the selected goods that are in short supply, the effect will be to divert the inflated purchasing power, and therefore labor and raw materials and transportation facilities, to the uncontrolled sections of the economy. The result is likely to be a decline, or at least no increase, in the production of these very commodities that are in short supply.

The inflation, of which we are now suffering the consequences, is due initially to the fact that in financing the war the government raised about a quarter of its funds, not out of taxes and not out of savings but by selling its securities to the commercial banking system. This bank money was as purely inflationary as if it had been fiat money turned out by the government printing press. At the end of 1945 it represented the huge sum of 95 billion dollars, all of it excess purchasing power for which there were no corresponding goods.

Counter-Measures

Against this initial inflationary force, the treasury took substantial counter-measures. Since the end of 1945 it has used its surplus to pay off government debt held by the banks, and at the end of June of this year holdings of government securities had been reduced by about 15%. This in itself would have been a genuine and effective means of arresting and even of reducing the inflation.

But the treasury's measures are being offset by the creation of new inflationary funds in the banks. The credits extended by the banks have risen at a rapid rate. Because of the high reserves which they already have and the large reserves which they can still acquire from investors who sell their government bonds, the country is threatened with an increasing inflation.

The President touched upon this—the central problem of the inflation—in his first point, but he did not give it anything like the emphasis it deserves, as can be seen by the fact that he put the restoration of consumer credit controls ahead of the restraint of inflationary bank credit. Yet the expansion of consumer credit is a small item as compared with the expansion of bank credit.

It is on that problem that our effort ought to be concentrated. Powers need to be given to the Federal Reserve system to check the creation of excess bank credit based upon the acquisition of government and other securities and of gold by the commercial banks. This could then be supplemented by the power to allocate transportation facilities and scarce commodities which the president asked for in his message.

The Night of The Soul—II

By Joseph Alsop

BERLIN

IT IS difficult for free men even to imagine the dark night of the soul, which is the terror of the police state. But for our own sakes, in our own hard political interests, some understanding of this night of the soul is a necessary thing. There follow, accordingly, three bald selections from personal narratives of the few fortunate ones who have escaped the Soviet terror in eastern Germany. These stories come from the mass of data, as impressive as it is horrifying, collected and checked by American officials here.

* * *

The man who will be called Hans Kunze is a 27-year-old former American prisoner of war who lives in Hamburg. In the fall of 1946 he visited Berlin. M. V. D. agents immediately picked him up on the Friedrichstrasse corner of the Unter den Linden, took him to M. V. D. headquarters at Kupfergraben, and there charged him with espionage. Kunze is a puzzled little man like the hero of the pre-war novel "Little Man What Now." He had no notion that the Soviets regard the mere accident of having been a prisoner of the Western Allies as a deeply suspicious fact for which it is estimated that tens of thousands have been arrested. Bewildered and terrified Kunze denies the charge.

ALSOP

After three interrogations the M. V. D. agents lost patience. Kunze was thrown to the floor of the interorgation chamber and beaten with truncheons and empty beer bottles while a radio blared to drown his screams. He persisted in his denial of espionage and was interrogated in this fashion every night for 10 nights.

Torture Day and Night

Between interrogations he was kept in a dungeon in a cellar of the M. V. D. headquarters. This place was unheated, windowless and without plumbing facilities. As many as 25 suspects at a time, the majority Socialists or former western prisoners like Kunze, were crammed into this filty hole. On Sundays there were no interrogations, since the M. V. D. officer took the day off. But on these days the M. V. D. guards brought their women into the prison for a drinking bout. When drunk, the guards amused themselves by entering the dungeon and whipping the prisoners with wire cables.

After nearly three months of this life, Kunze was transferred to Sachsenhausen. As under the Nazis three rings of guards encircled the camp, as, under the Nazis the prisoners received a diet of water soup, a little bread, and a little half rotten potatoes. The Russian commandant of the camp, Lieutenant Colonel Rudenko, even had a former Nazi S. S. man as his assistant. The place was the same as in the old days, except that there were no gas chambers or death ovens. The Soviet terror is certainly more complete, and perhaps more ruthless than the terror of the Nazis, but differs from it, at least, in this respect.

Heavy Death Toll

None the less, there was cruelty enough. At Sachsenhausen 35 to 40 prisoners died daily, many of them under punishment. Three classes of punishment were used. The lightest was the "karzer"—solitary confinement without food. Medium punishment was the "bunker"—being placed in an open hole in the ground from 15 to 25 feet deep where offenders had "to stand in their own filth" for 10 or 15 days. Most of those who experienced the "bunker" died before release. Yet the punishment for the worst offenders was not the "bunker" but being sent to the M. V. D's labor camps in the Soviet Union.

From all this, Kunze escaped by good fortune. The prisoners were organized on military lines, in battalions, companies and platoons. Two-thirds of the battalions were too under-nourished to work. One-third worked within the camp and got small extra rations. Special groups were "aussen-kommandos" used for work outside the camp. To one of these Kunze was assigned, and somehow got away.

The man who will be called Reinhold Schmidt is a Silesian expellee. With insane presumption he wrote a letter to the Allied Control council, to protest Silesia's fate. He was thrown into another M. V. D. dungeon at Potsdam. His interrogations occurred in mid-winter in a cell open to the weather. When he refused to confess to espionage, ice water was thrown over his naked body and allowed to freeze. The ice was then whipped off him with wire cables. He survived 13 interrogations of this sort. Another Silesian was subjected to the same treatment on 17 occasions, and at last broke down when he was shown his wife and daughter being tortured with the water and wire. After confession, this man went mad and tried to commit suicide, whereat both Silesians were inexplicably released.

A Socialist's Ordeal

Finally there was the young Socialist, who will be called Hans Schneider. He was captured in a big round-up of the brave men who still dare to remain independent Socialists in the Soviet zone. During his interrogations, he was beaten with truncheons, kicked in the abdomen and testicles, and strangled with a leather strap. This happened to him as often as six times a day. Finally, he was sent to a hospital with abdominal injuries, inflammation of the kidneys and infected flesh wounds. Thence he escaped. When describing his experience to American officers, he said:

"I was told it was worse to be a Socialist than a Nazi."

These are manifestations of the night of the soul, no more nor less shocking than the general run of the official data on the subject. Moreover, this ruthless and brutal terror is the motive force of the whole machinery, political, economic and controlling, of the Soviet zone of Germany.

The Once Over

Royal Wedding Expense My Eye!

The royal wedding of Princess Elizabeth is pretty swanky for distressful times. It represents a vast expenditure of money in a world run down at the heels and the emphasis on food and drink and luxury doesn't fit exactly into the picture of starving millions, but we wouldn't cut the bill by as much as a dime or change a detail. With this planet in the sad, dejected, befuddled shape it is in today, a wedding done in the fairy book manner will give us all a badly needed lift.

* * *

For one thing no veto can touch it. Romance is outside the jurisdiction of UN. Love laughs at Vishinsky.

* * *

To England the wedding has extra appeal as revealing love as the one thing that hasn't been nationalized. To the rest of the world it means a brief global heart-tingle instead of a non-stop global headache. All the world loves a lover and thrills to pumpkin coaches, white mice transformed into white horses, silver slippers, giant wedding cakes, "Moonlight and Roses" and "Till death doth us part."

* * *

For a flashing interlude countless millions of human beings feeling low and desolate will be transported from a world of street riots, machine gunnings, ultimatums and hatreds to a mood of soft music and "laughter from the clouds." The words "I love you" will drown out "Down with Whooziss!"

* * *

The mood will change from hisses to kisses. Debates, harangues, radio tirades, denunciations and catcalls will seemingly give way for a little while to soft music, and episodes straight out of Fairyland. The poet's words "How silver sweet sound lovers' tongues by night, like softest music to attending ears!" will temporarily rush in from the dugout to replace "Do ya think we'll have war with Russia?", "They gotta do sumpin about food prices" and "The court sentences you to be shot at sunrise."

* * *

For a day or two the matter of communism meeting democracy will do a fade-out before the old story of Boy Meets Girl.

* * *

In a world out of joint and suffering from the big jitters, wedding bells, orange blossoms will seem pretty lovely. It is nice to forget about the atomic bomb hanging over civilization and think of "a lark in the noon-sky, a thrust in the tree and a linnet singing wildly across the green seas."

* * *

On with the wedding and to blazes with the costs! The world needs it no matter it seems a little high, wide and fancy. Stalin, Tito, the Comintern, rationing, the Marshall plan, congressional inquiries and dog eat dog policies to one side! Gangway for romance and love songs and "Here Comes the Bride."!

Unimproved People

By Truman Twill

Don't brood about it, but many now living will be around in the 21st century. Already there is beginning to be speculation about what it is going to be like. No one believes the atomic horror people who warn there won't be anyone around by that time to tell the story—maybe a few surviving bugs and worms and some vultures, nothing else.

The speculators are working the same racket they worked during the late war. To hear them tell it, as soon as the 20th century ends, things automatically will be better. Instead of postwar dreams, they're having post-20th century dreams. Television, helicopters, fewer insects, remote control lawnmowers, more automatic labor-saving machinery and stuff like that—the same as we were going to have when the war was over, except it didn't work out that way.

Nothing is said about the only improvement that would make life in the 21st century easier on the natives than it is now. We are talking, of course, about the quality of people. Apparently, there's no hope of making people any better. All roads will be improved in the 21st century, but nothing will be done about the people.

There will be the usual percentage of meatheads with the best intentions in the world but the poorest performances—the ones that rush in where angels fear to tread, kick over all the breakable furnishings, then rush out, having done more damage than possibly can be repaired in a lifetime.

Also the clunks unable to grasp the possibility there might be more important things in the universe than the daily feeding and constant care of their pet prejudices, long since grown fat and disgusting with pampering and over-nourishment.

Also the pointey-heads who never have looked at anything but their own muscles and therefore have complete confidence in the muscular approach to anything and everything, from shaking hands to performing the complicated routines of life in an age of machinery, such as operating a vending machine.

Also weasels that walk erect and have learned what to do with old razor blades; namely, conceal them in unexpected places so unsuspecting souls will cut their throats, ears, scalps, wrists etc., thus giving the weasels a chance to decrease the quality and quantity of their competition.

Until something is in the works for improving the quality of the human race, the 21st century isn't likely to be appreciably better or worse than any other century.

SEE BIG INCREASE IN POWER NEEDS

Morrow County Co-op Surveys Demands for Current.

An anticipated increase in use of electrical equipment by its 1,750 members in the next 12-month period has prompted the Morrow Rural Electric Co-op to undertake an expansion program to increase power service.

On the basis of a recently completed survey, trustees authorized an $84,500 expenditure to step up the present system. The work is scheduled for completion in 1950.

The survey of members showed an anticipated load growth of approximately 40 kilowatts per month for the next year, based on prospective purchase by consumers of 140 electric ranges, 280 refrigerators, 87 home freezers, 137 water heaters and 122 water pumps.

On the basis of these figures local Co-op officials are expecting the average kilowatt use per Co-op member to reach 200 KWH by late this winter, and at their last meeting the trustees of the local Cooperative authorized the largest expansion program in the history of the organization. This expansion program will increase the capacity of the 460 miles of line operated by the Co-op to the point where it will be possible to deliver an average of 340 kilowatts per month to each Co-op user.

This will be accomplished by installing a 1,500 KW bank of transformers in the Yankee Street sub-station, by building several miles of 33,000 volt transmission line to a brand new 1,000 KW sub-station to be located northeast of Marengo and by converting 39 miles of existing single phase lines to multi-phase feeder lines.

These new multi-phase lines will be built south from the O.P.S. Stevens sub-station in North Bloomfield township, east into Knox and Richland counties from the Yankee Street station located east of Mt. Gilead, and from the new Marengo sub-station new feeder lines will carry increased supplies of power into the tier of townships across the south end of Morrow county.

Sketch of Royal Wedding Dress

This is an artist's impression of the princess gown of ivory duchess satin, cut on classic lines, with fitted bodice, long tight sleeves and full-falling skirt, which Princess Elizabeth wore for her wedding. The broad, heart-shaped neckline of the bodice is delicately embroidered with seed pearls and crystal in floral design.

From the pointed waistline formed by a girdle of pearl embroidered star flowers, the swirling skirt is hand embroidered in exquisite design inspired by the paintings of Bottigelli representing garlands of white York roses carried out in raised pearls entwined with ears of corn, minutely embroidered in crystals and oat-shaped pearls. Alternating between the garlands of roses and wheat and forming a final border around the hem of the skirt, are bands of blossom and star flowers applique and crystal. A full court train 15 feet long, of transparent ivory silk tulle attached to the shoulder is edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming the deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train. A reversed type of embroidery as used on the wedding gown, is here employed on the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroideries. An ethereal voluminous bridal veil of crisp white tulle is held by a tiara of pearls and diamonds. (Associated Press Photo)

...Elizabeth's heavy train had caught her on the "santuary" step and the two little pages in their white silk and tartan (H.R.H. Prince Michael of Kent, a godson of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, and H.R.H. Prince William of Gloucester), were unable to cope with so much finery.

Swinging his dress sword out of the way, his majesty knelt and lifted the train, and then carried it up the steps. Then, not quite sure things would still work as guaranteed, he carried it a few steps farther before he let it fall on the crimson carpet.

Even As All Fathers

It is traditional for all fathers to be nervous at the marriage of their daughters, and this king lived up to the tradition. He seemed as nervous as a cat on a hot brick while his lovely daughter appeared calm as a frozen statue.

By the time the first notes of the organ at 10:37 ...eight minutes ahead of schedule, most of the guests were in their places.

At 10:45 came the first glimpse of the great pageant soon to unroll.

As everyone rose into the gloomy abbey marched the king's gentlemen-at-arms, a wondrous sight in scarlet tunics covered with gold, dark-blue trousers with gold stripes down the side and with glistening golden helmets topped by white plumes.

Each looked at least seven feet tall as they took their places.

On the dot as planned, the percepter of the Abbey, gold-caped and with two clergymen in splendid red robes on both sides, led the first procession down the aisle.

That was the minor or just "kissing-kin" of royalty and relatives but it included one of of England's great war heroes, Earl Mountbatten of Burma and his beautiful wife.

Three minutes later the beautiful bells of St. Margaret's chapel next door to the Abbey began their joyous gay cascade. The swelling sound of these bells which announced departure of Queen Mother Mary from Marlborough house drowned out the Abbey organ from that moment until arrival of the king and the bride.

Even above the clear light-hearted sound of the bells could be heard the thunder of cheers announcing arrival of the coach queen.

In immense dignity and sables she awaited Queen Elizabeth in the vestibule.

LONDON, Nov. 20—The archbishop of York addressed a special message to Princess Elizabeth and her bridegroom on the occasion of their wedding today emphasizing that "love must always be unselfish."

The second highest prelate of the Anglican church said in part:

"Love is the true secret of happy married life . . .

"You must always be true and faithful to one another until death parts . . .

"You will learn to bear one another's burdens as you walk the road of life, making the journey together with happiness and hope . . . making your home an oasis of peace and love . . .

"Let Christ always be the unseen guest in your home.

"You go forth to the multitudes waiting to greet you with the affectionate good wishes of all.

"May God now and always give you every blessing of peace and happiness."

BATTLESHIP NEW MEXICO IN PORT, NO 'SHOTS' FIRED

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 20—The battleship New Mexico, once proud queen of the Fifth Fleet, made her last beachhead yesterday.

The arrival of the 30,000-ton battlewagon at Port Newark for scrapping was greeted by upraised water-nozzles of Newark's fleet of two small fireboats—the same craft which hurled defiance in the threatened but never consummated "battle of Newark Bay."

For more than a week, Newark and the port of New York authority had opposed allowing Lipsett, Inc., salvage firm, to scrap the New Mexico and other war craft in Port Newark, fearing that the scrapping would jeopardize a $70,000,000 development program of Newark's airport and seaport planned by the port authority under a 50-year lease with the city.

The agreement was reached at a Washington conference with Under-Secretary of the Navy John Kenney. The Lipsett firm, under the agreement, will also scrap two other battleships at Port Newark—the Idaho and the Wyoming.

OIL CO. EXECUTIVE SALES-AD SPEAKER

John Wieland of Cleveland Addresses Marion Club.

Merits of the "free enterprise" system were extolled Wednesday by John Wieland of Cleveland, advertising director for the Standard Oil company of Ohio in an address to the luncheon meeting of the Marion Chamber of Commerce Sales-Ad club held in the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Wieland who has been with the Sohio company since 1932, told the 45 members and guests present that the United States was the only country in which the oil business was a matter of free enterprise rather than government owned and controlled.

Professing a keen interest in political science, the oil man said he had studied the various world governments and had observed that they fell into two general classes, those in which the individual took precedence over the state and those in which the state came first

In the state controlled economies, the less efficiently run industries under government control were unable to keep production and operation costs down with a resulting high price level.

Of the present prices in our own oil industry under the free enterprise system, Mr. Wieland said they are up only 33 and one third per cent over the 1926 figures used as a base for computation by economists, in comparison with an average of over 200 per cent in other basic commodities.

There are 30,000 independent oil companies in the United States and the prices in the industry are controlled not by a monopoly set up but by competition, Mr. Wieland explained, adding that there is a vast job of enlightening the public on industry facts awaiting public relations men in the industry. For example he said the average individual, as shown by a survey taken and including company employes, believed that the number of oil companies in the United States numbered no more than 200 and that prices were controlled by the leaders

The speaker was introduced by John P. Sharkey, Sohio district manager.

Slayers of Railroad Worker Are Hunted

By The United Press

DOVER, O., Nov. 20—A police search was conducted throughout Tuscarawas county today for the slayers of John R. Myers, 56-year-old Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad worker, who was fatally beaten in a robbery attempt and his body dumped near a tavern in nearby Zoar.

Sheriff's deputies said Myers had left a cafe in Bolivar last night shortly before two men tossed his beaten body into the street at Zoar and escaped in an automobile. Myers' body was identified today when his automobile was found parked outside the Bolivar cafe.

Deputies said the pair of robbers apparently lay outside the Bolivar tavern and attacked Myers as he started to enter his car to drive to his home in the village.

WEDDING

a two-hour trip by train to Romsey, in Hampshire.

The king, queen and their royal guests pelted them with confetti.

They will go to the estate of Earl Mountbatten, the bridegroom's uncle, where sentry boxes and a police patrol were set up to guard them.

Princess Elizabeth and Philip officially are considered to be third cousins, although the distant blood relationship admittedly is complicated in the line of descent

Actually they stand between second and third cousinship — a "relatively remote" blood kinship which has linked many partners in royal marriage in Europe in the past.

Break In Widespread Gloom

The ceremony was packed with the ancient symbolism of a thousand years of English history. It lightened, somewhat, the hearts of the princess' millions of future subjects, adding a splash of color and romance to a national life which has become progressively more dreary since the legions of Hitler first threatened Britain.

Throughout the country, in every town and village and farmhouse and upon the high seas, millions of loyal Britons rejoiced, not thinking of the ceremony as something to be shared only by those comparative few who witnessed it.

Radio and television provided a personal link between the princess and many of her people

Million Along Route

Scotland Yard estimated the crowds jamming the route of the wedding procession at more than 1,000,000 people. They assembled hours before the ceremonies began, waiting patiently in a chill, intermittent drizzle.

Thousands converged on Buckingham palace long before the princess arose at her usual hour of 7.30 a. m.

The bridegroom spent the night at Kensington palace in another part of the city, with his mother, Princess Andrew of Greece.

Apart from the bride's father no fewer than five kings were on hand for the ceremony—Haakon of Norway, Frederik of Denmark, Feisal of Irak, Mihai of Romania and Peter of Yugoslavia.

Cheered by Throng

Thhunderous cheers arose as the queen left Buckingham palace at 11:03 a. m., two minutes behind schedule With her in her coach, drawn by the Windsor greys, was Princess Margaret. They left at a trotting pace down the mall. Life guards in red tunics, burnished breast-plates and white plumes, cantered beside the carriage.

In a second coach rode the king of Norway and the queen of the Hellenes The king and queen of Denmark were in a third carriage.

Queen Mother Mary, in her ancient limousine, arrived at the abbey at 11:10 a. m.

Promptly at 11:05 a. m, the bridegroom and his best man, his cousin, the Marquess of Milford-Haven, left Kensington Palace.

Scene in the Abbey

As Queen Mary walked slowly into the abbey, followed by the Princess Juliana and her consort, Prince Bernhard, of the Netherlands, a light drizzle started up again.

Next came the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

At the Abbey door was a guard of honor of service men and women who have been associated with the bride and groom.

Princess Elizabeth walked out of the palace to enter the Irish state coach at 11:16 a. m, while bands played the national anthem, "God Save the King." The king sat at her right.

In a moment of excitement, the crowds broke through police lines for a moment, but were pushed back quickly.

As the carriage procession of the princess and her father, King George VI, left the palace forecourt the cheering rose, mounting to absolute din. The princess waved.

The bridegroom arrived at the poet's corner door of the Abbey with his best man at 11:15 a. m

The princess, dignified and serene, wore a diamond tiara, her mother's. She was a lovely figure in flowing white as she sat with head held high, acknowledging the plaudits of the crowd.

Bridegroom Arrives Early

The bridegroom's car arrived at the Abbey a few moments ahead of the time scheduled.

"This is a bad show," he laughed, "we must get things right."

A moment later he emerged and the duke, still laughing, said:

"I am glad to see there is a black cat watching the proceedings over there."

A black cat is considered lucky in England.

As the king and princess reached the Abbey, another band struck up "God Save the King."

King George, in the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, stepped from the coach first, then helped his daughter to alight. She paused for a moment to look at the Abbey then entered.

There was complete silence as they entered the west door, then a fanfare heralded her arrival and the procession moved slowly down the nave.

After the echoes of the fanfare died away, the organ began the processional: "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven." The voices of the choir blended with the organ in the hymn.

Meet at Sanctuary

At the steps of the sanctuary the bride was joined by Philip and they stood quietly, waiting for the end of the hymn.

"Dearly beloved," the Archbishop of Canterbury began in the familiar opening words of the marriage service and the moment for which millions were waiting had arrived. The archbishop's voice rang firmly through the magnificent old church.

Philip, repeating the marriage will" quietly. When Elizabeth vow after the archbishop, said "I echoed the vows her words were scarcely audible.

King George VI then gave his eldest daughter in marriage. Philip joined his right hand with Elizabeth's, and in a strong, resonant voice repeated the words:

"I, Philip, take thee, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, to be my wedded wife, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish till death do us part, according to God's holy ordinance, and thereto I plight thee my troth."

Philip released Elizabeth's hand. The princess then took Philip's right hand, and repeated after the venerable prelate:

"I Elizabeth Alexandra Mary take thee, Philip, to be my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey till death do us part, according to God's holy ordinance; and hereto I give thee my troth."

Bride Receives Ring

Elizabeth released Philip's hand. Philip then placed the ring on Elizabeth's finger and, repeating after the archbishop, said:

"With this ring I thee wed, with my body I thee worship and with all my worldly goods I thee endow, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, amen."

The royal couple knelt before the archbishop and the congregation remained standing while the prelate intoned the prayer.

An audible murmur ran through the assemblage as the archbishop pronounced Philip and Elizabeth man and wife.

The archbishop of York delivered his address and the Archbishop of Canterbury gave the final prayer and benediction.

After an anthem by the choir, the entire assemblage joined in the verses of "God Save the King."

Register Signed

Then the royal bride and bridegroom and the members of their families were led beyond the high altar, and into the chapel of Edward the Confessor to sign the register. A golden pen was used.

The Archbishop of York advised the couple in his address to be unselfish in their love and to share each other's problems.

As the ceremonies came to a close, trumpeters sounded a fanfare. A moment later, the rich tones of the organ filled the Abbey and, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the royal couple moved with their procession toward the waiting thousands outside.

As Elizabeth and Philip passed King George and Queen Elizabeth, the young duke bowed and his royal bride made a deep curtsey.

Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Attlee, sitting close together, smiled as the bride took her husband's arm for the recessional.

Churchbells sounded, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of a milling, jubilant multitude.

Elizabeth, stepping into the coach, paused a moment to fold her train, taking up its ends from the two little pages, Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent.

On the short journey to the altar the bridegroom had repeatedly looked back to see how the pages were managing. To help them he deliberately slowed the pace. Standing at his daughter's left the king, in the midst of the ceremony, also stooped once to grasp the train for a moment.

Donning his cap, the duke took his place beside his bride in the coach, the footmen mounted and the procession began its return to the palace.

Labor Law Stand

An indication that the chamber would not press now for Ohio legislation matching the Taft-Hartley law was given by Herschel C. Atkinson, executive vice president of the organization, who recalled Gov. Herbert's veto of the Van Auken labor bill last winter.

The Chamber's labor advisory committee has been "following this situation," Atkinson said, but added:

"In view of the present circumstance that, since the enactment of the Taft-Hartley bill * * * there has been a steadily improving labor management picture, and further that there are no major threats of strife on the Ohio horizon, the management view expressed to us increasingly has been to counsel caution and the fullest deliberation in the approach to any such state legislation.

No Need To Hurry

"* * * The preponderance of Ohio industrial management today doubts the wisdom of an effort to hurry or make an attempt to enact a new state labor law in any special session of the legislature. * * * There will be time enough to consider such legislation when the next meeting of the Ohio general assembly convenes in January, 1949."

OHIO BANDITS ESCAPE AFTER GUN BATTLE

By The United Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 20—Three heavily-armed bandits shot their way to freedom last night in a running gun battle with two county patrolmen after holding up a tavern in an outlying Hamilton county community.

County officers, aided by city police, combed the Fairfax area, where the holdup occurred, and ran down numerous "tips," but the trio still was at large early today.

Patrolmen Walter Julien and Ray Scroggins were driving less than a block from the tavern when a police broadcast informed them of the holdup.

As they pulled up at the tavern, they spotted three men running away from the establishment. The gunmen opened fire almost immediately, Julien told newsmen.

The deputies threw themselves on the ground and began firing back.

The deputies emptied their service revolvers at the fleeing robbers, but the trio escaped when the patrolmen stopped to reload.

Although the officers were not wounded in the gun duel, Julien said he believed one of the bandits had been hit in the shoulder

Capital Capers

By Frederick Othman

WASHINGTON

When R. A. Curnutt wore his colonel uniform he was about as fine a looking bus driver as there was on the run out of Muskogee, Okla. Had a pretty daughter, by name of Ila Rae.

She grew into beautiful blond womanhood and in the natural course of events headed for Hollywood, where she hired a press agent. He called her the glamor-girl of Ohio, but somehow Ila Rae didn't click in pictures. She landed a couple of small roles, but she was about to return to Muskogee when she met a celebrated agent for actors. She fell in love. They were married and Ila Rae soon found herself in cafe society in New York.

OTHMAN

Her father still was driving his bus. Ila Rae's marriage fizzled. She divorced her agent soon she was married again to Col. Bennett E. Meyers, who was a handsome gent in a bald-headed sort of way. That was in 1942.

The colonel brought his blue-eyed bride to wartime Washington and established her in perhaps the fanciest apartment in the Shoreham Hotel 2400. It should have been fancy, it cost the taxpayers—by way of war contracts the colonel steered to his own electric company—$10,000 to furnish.

The problem now was how to help out bus driver Curnutt. The colonel, who soon was promoted to brigadier general, solved that one. He made his father-in-law vice president in charge of production at his Aviation Electric Corp. at Vandalia, O.

"Gen. Meyers told me that Mr. Curnutt held an important position with a railroad and would be of great help to me in running the plant," testified Bleriot Lamarre, the figure-head president of the firm. "I didn't know he was the general's father-in-law."

"Yes," interrupted Sen. Homer Ferguson, chairman of the war investigating subcommittee, "but I thought he was a bus driver."

HE WAS, LAMARRE SAID, but the bus company was owned by a railroad. Anynow the new vice president went to Vandalia at $12,000 a year. Everything was fine, except that the executive from Muskogee couldn't find anything to do, except walk around the factory. "Just walk?" asked Sen. Ferguson.

"Yes, and he was a very unhappy," Lamarre continued. "I tried him as a bookkeeper, but he couldn't do the work. Then I put him in charge of the supply room."

The Oklahoma chauffeur-turned-tycoon took his $12,000 a year until 1945, when he quit the company after making a complicated deal to continue collecting his salary until 1948.

WHILE THIS EVIDENCE and more was going onto the record, Curnutt sat in the rear, expressionless, in civies. There also was Ila Rae, smart-looking in a long black skirt with white lace around it. So, too, was the general, scribbling notes furiously and puffing an outsized cigar.

It turned out, according to the testimony, that all the officials of Meyers' Electric company—which manufactured fuse boxes for fighting planes—were dummies, whose principal job was to collect large salaries and hand over most of same to Meyers.

The senate's record showed that he collected from $50-a-week President Lamarre and from a $25-a-week vice president fresh from college a total during the war years of $118,408.23. Every cent of this was government money spent for war planes.

What happens next in the strange case of the case of the general who grew rich out of the war I do not know, but I think it's going to be interesting. We may even hear the story of the Oklahoma bus driver, who fired a beautiful daughter with no idea at the time of what heights that even would lead him.

Y'S MEN ON TOUR OF SHOVEL CO. PLANT

Visit Follows Weekly Dinner Meeting at Y.M.C.A.

A tour of the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant and offices was featured at the Y's Men's Service club weekly meeting last night.

During the banquet at the Y.M.C.A., H. H. Douthitt, director of industrial relations of the Marion Power Shovel Co. and a guest of the club, gave a brief history of the company.

After the banquet, he and Dick Meyers, Clayton Edson, James Arnold, Robert Klatt, Russel Simmons and George Howser, company employes, conducted a tour of the plant and offices.

One of the most interesting features of the tour was the demonstration of the plant's tabulating machines by Dick Meyers, Clayton Edson and James Arnold, of the payroll and tabulating division.

Ralph Workman, safety director, and C. J. Roberts, personnel director of the company, were other guests of the club.

Final plans for the "ladies' night" dinner to be held next Wednesday were discussed at the meeting and it was announced that Joseph E. Parks, dean of men at Ohio State university, would entertain with a discussion of Scottish wit and humor.

The football banquet for St. Mary and Harding gridders was discussed. It was announced that the Y's Men's club had secured food and the place for the banquet, which will be held in Moira hall of St. Mary church, Dec. 3.

Walter Welsey and Lowell Shambaugh, on the Christmas party committee, presented plans for a Christmas party for the children's home Dec. 18 at the Y.M.C.A.

Floyd Arthur and P. L. Loveland were named as a committee to buy gifts for the party.

The origin of April-Fool's Day is in doubt but is believed to mark the end of once universal festivities held at the vernal equinox.

MARRIAGE HAILED AS LOVE MATCH. Love match, sometimes lacking in royal unions, marks the romance of British Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy, formerly Prince Philip of Greece. Philip, a great-great-great-grandson of Britain's Victoria, is 26, his bride-to-be, 21. Exiled from Greece when his uncle, King Constantine, was tossed off the throne, Philip sailed to England with his family a year after his birth. He first met Elizabeth at a palace luncheon when she was six. When their later friendship bloomed, Philip became a British subject, ending political objections to the match. As the husband of a future queen, Philip will assume a role similar to that of Albert, husband and prince consort of Queen Victoria. Philip will exercise no constitutional power. Couple Found Guilty In Children's Deaths

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, Nov. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lehaney, both 41, today faced mandatory life prison terms following their conviction in the fatal beatings of James Gleason, 5, and his brother, Gerald, 2, who boarded at the Lehaney home.

A jury of nine women and three men returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder late yesterday, but recommended mercy, making a life-term mandatory.

Mrs. Florence Lehaney was convicted in the death of both boys; her husband in the death of James. Defense attorneys immediately announced they would petition for a new trial.

The couple fled Toledo last April following James' death and were arrested three weeks later at Waterloo, Ia. The younger boy died a month before his brother.

GALION MAN INJURED IN TRAFFIC COLLISION

Dick Gardner, 20, of Galion, suffered lacerations of the cheek when the car in which he was riding was involved in a collision with another car at 1:30 a. m. today on route 30-S about two miles south of Galion.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Amos Lyons, 29, of near Cardington. The other car was driven by Clifford Robson, 18, of near Marengo, who was arrested by the state patrol and charged with unsafe operation of a motor vehicle. Both cars were damaged.

Larger Sales Tax Share Sought for Local Units

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 20—Delegates to the Ohio Association of Cities conference will be asked to endorse a resolution today urging the state to distribute more sales tax receipts to local governmental units.

The association's executive committee last night recommended that local units receive 40 per cent of the sales tax receipts beyond $95,000,000, and that such surpluses be distributed along present lines.

The committee also made two other recommendations:

1. That Gov. Thomas J. Herbert ask the special session of the legislature to declare city operating levies approved if they carry at least 55 per cent of the balloting, instead of 65 per cent, as now.

2. That the state be asked to "strictly adhere" to a statute which required it to match city relief expenditures on a 50-50 basis. The committee said the state now was only paying 36 per cent.

New Treatment for the "DTs"

People often speak jokingly of delirium tremens because not one in a thousand has ever seen a case of this disorder.

The reality, which constitutes one of the greatest penalties of too-heavy drinking, is far from a joke. Delirium tremens is a serious condition and one which may end fatally, especially where it is not promptly and properly treated.

After many years of study, it now seems definitely established tha "DTs" is not due to some damaging effect of alcohol, as is popularly supposed, but rather to a lack of necessary food elements, particularly a deficiency of vitamin B-1.

The symptoms of delirium tremens vary to a great extent. However, patients with this condition are highly excited and confused and suffer from hallucinations. They may often jump or cower with terror because they hear of the horrors they imagine they see or think. Attacks usually last from three to six days.

A recent treatment for delirium tremens seems to have proved quite effective in quickly quieting the patient and overcoming the attack. This treatment consisted first of the giving of sedatives or quieting drugs. Then the patient was given two quarts of a solution of sugar, salt, Vitamin B-1 and insulin. Insulin is the secretion from the pancreas, and is needed for the use of sugars by the body. The two quarts of this solution are given slowly by injection into a vein.

It was found that with this treatment the patient's hallucination rapidly became milder. When a second injection of the solution was employed, the symptoms were completely overcome. Thus, in less than ten hours after the treatment was started, the patient was calm and clear of mind. After a week of treatment, complete recovery took place.

Apparently this form of treatment may be employed with entire safety and success, so long as there are no complications present.

It is to be hoped, of course, that people will not use alcoholic beverages to such excess that delirium tremens will develop.

Those who use alcoholic beverages in moderation should make sure that they are not allowing the habit to interfere with the eating of all the necessary foods. In this way, the harmful effects from the use of alcoholic beverages may be warded off.

Of course, there are some persons who have formed the alcohol habit, and they present a difficult problem in treatment. Alcoholism is being carefully studied and treated in a number of institutions and it is to be hoped that some methods will be found of overcoming the habit before it brings its victims to the stage of delirium tremens.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. S.: Is there any cure, except operation, for a catarrhal gallbladder?

Answer: Inflammation of the gallbladder, which is sometimes called catarrhal gallbladder, may sometimes be treated satisfactorily by diet and other measures. Operation is not always required. Of course, the condition should be treated under the direction of your doctor.

CONGRESSMAN HITS YETS HOUSING ACTION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Rep. [illegible] (R-Ohio) today protested [illegible] of the war assets administration in notifying 25 veterans' [illegible] near Sandusky, that all [illegible] would be shut off next [illegible] Year's eve at homes they [illegible] on the Plum Brook ordnance reservation.

[illegible]hel, in a statement prepared for the Congressional Record, said the WAA has given notice of a cut-off of utility service to veterans living in government-owned quarters on the reservation.

The 25 houses involved, he said, formerly served as officers' quarters, have been used since the war for temporary occupancy by veterans unable to find "satisfactory" housing elsewhere. More than 100 children live in the settlement, he said.

Weichel said the notice of cessation of utility service at midnight Dec. 31 was sent to all families concerned by John A. Retter, deputy regional director of the office of real property disposal in Cleveland.

The WAA plan, Weichel said, calls for discontinuing central utilities at the ordnance base, which was constructed at a total cost of $15,000,000 and now is surplus property.

The WAA suggested in its notice to veterans that they could make "private arrangements" for utility service, the Ohioan said. He added the nearest utilities were three miles away in Sandusky and it would be "virtually impossible" to extend them to the reservation.

The homes are heated from a central plant and have no furnaces, he added.

DISTRICT ENDORSES TAFT

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 20—Sen. Robert A. Taft's bid for the Republican presidential nomination today had the endorsement of the G.O.P. county chairmen in the Seventh congressional district. The chairmen, meeting here yesterday, also endorsed Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and Rep., Clarence J. Brown.

MERKEL AGAINST RETURN OF INSTALLMENT CONTROL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—State Securities Chief James F. Merkel, former Marion resident, told the Ohio Association of Small Loan companies yesterday that he was opposed to reenactment of credit controls by congress.

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the loan companies, Merkel, who serves as Ohio small loan administrator, said:

"I am against recontrol of consumer installment credit at this time and would much prefer seeing concerted voluntary restraint on the part of those who extend credit."

Merkel said Ohio leads the nation in the number of firms licensed to make loans with a total of 605.

Y SECRETARY SPEAKS AT MEETING OF P.-T.A.

Earl N. Hale, executive secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and hobbyist, was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Silver Street P.-T. A. Tuesday night. Mrs. Lawrence Morse, president, presided and the meeting opened with devotions conducted by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades under the direcuon of Miss Agnes Lutz, a member of the school staff. For the musical part of the program Mrs. Pauline Hedding, accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Buckley, sang two solos. Both are members of the faculty.

Mr Hale devoted the early part of his talk to hobbies in general and pointed out that having a hobby was not only a pleasure and education to the hobbyist but was of interest and frequently an inspiration to others to become collectors. A hobby, he pointed out, is something that can be shared with others. He discussed his hobby which is Presidents of the United States, and had with him a number of interesting articles from his collection.

Mrs. Morse gave a brief talk on the work being done in the interest of the prevention and cure of infantile paralysis.

★Of my husband, Edward G. Corbett, who passed away Nov. 20, 1944.

When the evening shades are falling,
And I am sitting all alone,
In my heart there comes a longing,
If you only could come home.

You shall never be forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
'Round the grave where you are laid.

But God alone knows how I miss you
As this ends the third sad year;
The parting brought me sadness,
But nothing to compare with our happy meeting
When we meet over there.

Sadly missed by his wife,
Mrs. Ella Corbett.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Burglary Wave Plagues Carey

Special to The Star

CAREY, Nov. 20 — Merchants in Carey have been victims in a number of burglaries recently with several more reported over the week-end. It was discovered Saturday that the high school building had been broken into and the band room and superintendent's room ransacked. Records and files were strewn about the rooms, but nothing was taken but $1.51 Red Cross money.

The same night the Carey Elevator was again broken into, a gum machine being the only thing taken. On Saturday night, the Kroger grocery store was looted and the only thing of value taken were some cigarets.

Zumbach's jewelry store was also victimized on Saturday night. Eight watches, an electric razor, cigarette lighter and $8.00 was stolen, Mr. Zumbach stated his loss may be greater than this, as he recently purchased the store and he could not state definitely its actual contents until an invoice is checked. As yet, there have been no arrests made.

Martel Grange Meets In School Auditorium

A program, in keeping with Armistice day, was presented when Martel Grange met recently in the Martel school auditorium. Numbers on the program were as follows: duet, "My Buddy," by Shirley and Lois Pangborn, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Pangburn; poems, "Shall We Forget" and "Remembrance," read by Mrs. J. K. Neff; and group singing of "Old Glory." A memory contest and a "Crazy Quiz" conducted by the lecturer followed.

Kenneth Pangborn, master, presided for the meeting during which Ralph Nesgle and Everett Deuce were named to serve on the auditing committee. At the next meeting, Nov. 25, annual election of officers will be held.

DAUGHTERS OF LUTHER

The Daughters of Luther of Emanuel Lutheran church met at the home of Mrs. Victor Trom Tuesday evening. After a business session, games were played and first honors went to Mrs. Ralph Garverick, Mrs. Edith Augenstein, and Mrs. Arthur Webb. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Owen Baldauf and will be a pot-luck supper and a Christmas gift exchange.

SOCIETY HEARS TALK BY REV. HOCHSTETTLER

D. H. Hochstetler, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Old Age Pension Society of Marion county Monday in the Eagles hall. He chose for his subject, "Peace," and used as a portion of his text, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on him." "One of the crowning things God gives man is peace, Rev. Hochstetler said, and further stated that as Jesus enters our life and we accept him as the Lord of our lives then there is peace. He explained that peace is that which is within when Jesus enters into the life of an individual. Rev. Hochstetler closed with the message, "Have faith in God and in Jesus Christ his son, follow his commandments and lead the Christian life, and you will find peace in your soul."

Group singing of "America," prayer by Rev. Hochstetler, and the salute to the flag opened the meeting. Two numbers, 'Loyalty to Christ" and "Wonderful Peace," were sung by the choir, and Christian Ruth and William E. Sergent sang "Christ Receiveth Sinful Men." "The Flash," edited by the legislative committee of the Townsend organization, was read by Arthur Hershner, president.

DELAWARE K. P. MEETING

Announcement has been made of a special Delaware county Knights of Pythias lodge meeting to be held Monday night in Delaware with Lenape lodge, No. 29, as host group. The third rank will be conferred by use of the amplified form, first use of this particular method in 30 years, it was stated. Because of unusual amount of equipment necessary, and inadaptability to certain lodge rooms the method was discontinued, but after numerous requests for its revival, it will be the special feature of the county meeting, James Leonard, district deputy in charge, explained. Invitations have been sent Magnetic Springs, Essex and New Dover lodges of Union county, together with Delaware county lodges of District No. 14.

The water must be boiling

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"MOTHER Graham knows nothing about Mary," I said, save that she came home from the sanitarium very much better, but so fatigued from the journey that the physician said she must rest before she made any trips."

"Does she know I'm taking care of her?" Katharine queried.

"Yes, and her comment was, 'Well! That's a load off my mind. Mary'll be all right if Mrs. Bickett is with her.'"

"Why, the old darling!" Katharine exclaimed, smiling, and I knew that the tribute was a heady one to her.

"Have you given her any bulletins about Mary?" she asked next.

"Yes, she knows she's nearly well, so she won't be unduly surprised at Mary's visit."

"So far, so good," she commented a bit absently. Then she faced me.

"You'll have to be prepared for some sharp questions," she said. "Remember, that woman has one of the keenest minds I ever have known. When you tell her about this wedding she's going to let fly some barbed arrows about the reactions of Georges, of Noel, of Olma, and, especially of Mary."

"I know it," I said ruefully, "and I shall prepare for it. But I don't see any way out, save Dicky's rule for such cases."

"To lie like hell and stick to it till hell freezes over," Katharine quoted in such matter-of-fact tones that I choked with laughter.

"Well! I don't know a better rule in this case," she said. "Do you?"

"No," I said, "and I'm going to follow it slavishly."

"Then everything's settled," she said, rising and stretching her arms above her head. "You go in first and bring your mother-in-law up to date. Then you bring Mary in, and beat it out to us. Then when Mary has had her interview with her grandmother, she will summon the rest of us, and we'll have a grand party. And it won't hurt Mother Graham a bit. Instead it will pep her up tremendously."

"Mary's all right until morning," she said, "so if you'll sleep on the couch in her room, I'll run over to my own diggins, and crawl in. I'm sure neither you nor Mary will waken until the morrow."

She departed on the word, and, going noiselessly into the bedroom where Mary was fast asleep, I disrobed and crept into the covertings of the cot bed. Resolutely I put from me all thoughts of the day's excitement, and "counted sheep" until I went to sleep.

Mary's hand on my wrist awakened me.

"Hate to bother you," she apologized, but you know Noel is coming to breakfast, and if you don't stir your stumps, he'll be stumbling over your recumbent form."

"Mary!" I reproached with a startled glance at my wrist watch. "Why didn't you call me before?"

"Principally because I haven't wake up myself until a second ago," she said with an impish grin. "We sure pounded our respective ears last night. Now suppose you rush through your shower, and then I'll grab mine. If we hustle, we'll be able to make the dead-line."

I gave her a searching look from beneath my eyelashes as I started for the shower, and was delighted with what I saw. Mary patently was herself again, clear eyed, beaming with high spirits, competent. The problem of Georges had given her just the right sort of stimulus.

"Make it snappy!" she called after me as I reached the bathroom door, and I obeyed her to such purpose that I was back in the bedroom with my French towel bathrobe wrapped around me in three minutes. I waved a large bath towel at her.

"I'll dry off in here," I said, "and my clothing is all here. The bathroom is yours."

"Lightning has nothing on you," she said as she went into the bathroom, carrying her clothing over her arm. But, she, who is known on the stage as "the quickest change going," came out of the bathroom fully dressed and coiffed, as I was combing my hair.

"I never can beat you," I said despondently.

"If you'd been in one of old Phil Veritzen's companies as long as I have, you'd leave everybody at the post," she said comfortingly. "Now, whats the program for today?"

I debated for an instant the wisdom of telling her of the projected hospital visit before she had her interview with Noel Then, I decided that the more digression she had the better.

"Just one thing on for today," I said. "We're all going down to the hospital to see your grandmother."

Braves' Bob Elliott Named Most Valuable Player in NL

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Bob Elliott, heavy hitting third baseman of the Boston Braves, today was proclaimed the National league's most valuable player for 1947 by a vote of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' association.

In becoming the first member of a non-pennant winning team to gain the distinction since Ernie Lombardi of the fourth-place Cincinnati Reds won the award in 1938, Elliott also had the honor of becoming the first third baseman in either league to win the title since its inception in 1911.

The 31-year-old native of San Francisco, whose great work both at bat and in the field was largely responsible for Boston's third-place finish last season, is only the second Brave thus honored. The other was Johnny Evers, of Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance fame back in 1914.

Elliott, a converted outfielder who made the shift to the hot corner in 1942, polled a total of 205 votes in the balloting for the Kenesaw Mountain Landis memorial award to win by a comfortable margin over Ewell Blackwell, righthanded Cincinnati ace pitcher of no-run, no-hit game, who had 175 points.

Mize Is Third

Johnny Mize, slugging first baseman of the New York Giants, was third with 144 and catcher Bruce Edwards led a sizeable delegation of champion Brooklyn Dodgers with 140 points.

Twenty-six players figured in the voting, an unusually low total, and 10 received at least one first-place vote. Elliott led in this department with nine first-place ballots. Edwards had four. Blackwell, Mize and Peewee Reese, Dodger shortstop who finished eighth in the voting, had two apiece.

Jackie Robinson, Negro rookie first baseman of the Dodgers; Larry Jansen, freshman pitcher of the Giants; Emil (Dutch) Leonard, veteran knuckleball hurler of the Philadelphia Phillies; Dixie Walker, veteran Dodger outfielder, and Willard Marshall, Giant flychaser, each was named top man on one ballot. Of the 26 players, only Blackwell was named on all 24 ballots.

Robinson finished fifth with 106 votes, just nosing out Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner who placed sixth with 101. Jansen was seventh with 91 votes and Reese's eighth place total was 80. Harry Walker, the Phillies' fleet centerfielder, who led the league in hitting with .362, and George (Whitey) Kurowski, long ball belting third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals were tied for ninth and tenth positions with 45 votes apiece.

Stan Musial of the Cardinals who breezed in an easy winner in the 1946 poll, could do no better than 20th with only 20 votes. He did not get any votes above seventh. Elliott last year received only one vote to just get in under "honorable mention."

Army Scout Says Cadets To Schedule Notre Dame

By The United Press

KINGSTON, N. Y., Nov. 20—An Army football scout today "took it for a fact" that the Army-Notre Dame football game will be revived in the near future.

Lt. Jack Green said that, although he was speaking from personal observation only, he predicts a two-game series between the two schools.

He pointed to Illinois, Stanford and Michigan on the Army schedule as proof that the Cadets were not deserting big-time competition.

WOOSTER WINDS UP SEASON

WOOSTER, Nov. 20 — Coach Johnny Swigart and his Wooster gridders, victors in four of eight games, wind up the 1947 season playing Mt. Union at Alliance next Saturday.

COACHES GRAVEYARD HAPPY WITH FESLER

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—For years they've called Columbus and Ohio State university "the graveyard of coaches."

But today, with Ohio State in throes of its worst season since 1897, and apparently scheduled to drop its third straight game to bitter-rival Michigan Saturday at Ann Arbor, the folks around here can't seem to do enough for Coach Wes Fesler.

Last night, for example, the Ohio State Journal quarterback club showered gifts on him. The Buckeyes' new coach, who took over this fall at the school where he won All-America honors in 1929 and 1930, was presented with two wing-back chairs, a lamp and a mahogany flip-back table.

Tonight, for the first time in the memory of oldtimers, downtown Columbus will ring with the cheers of a huge sendoff rally for the Buckeyes' off-the-campus followers.

Team members will be introduced, along with Fesler and his assistants. The university's marching band will be there. So will Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert and Mayor James Rhodes.

TRUMAN TO FAVOR CADETS IN ARMY-NAVY GAME

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20 — President Truman tossed tradition to the winds today and decided to sit only on the Army side of the field at the Army-Navy football game.

Next year, however, the Chief Executive will sit on the Navy side when the Middies are the home team.

Heretofore, the President changed sides between halves of the service classic.

Michigan-Ohio State Special To Stop Here

Two Chesapeake and Ohio football specials to the Michigan-Ohio State game Saturday at Ann Arbor will stop for passengers here, the railroad company announced today through the local station agent, Robert H. Stief. The trains, one a Pullman and one a coach train, will arrive in Marion from Columbus at 8 a. m. and the arrival time at the stadium will be around 12 noon. The trains will leave the stadium immediately after the game.

The trains are being sponsored by the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce of Columbus. Tickets for the game also are available at the Marion union station. Reservations may be made by telephone.

A special train of football fans from Akron will transfer to the Chesapeake and Ohio road here, arriving at 8:45 a. m. and leaving at 9:15 a. m. This train will arrive at the stadium shortly after the C. and O. specials.

FIGHTER TAKES BLOW; LANDS IN HOSPITAL

By The Associated Press

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 20—Shed Bell, 166, Youngstown, O., knocked out last night by Nick Barone, 171, Syracuse, in the main bout of a professional boxing card, was under observation today in Binghamton City hospital.

Attaches said Bell might have internal injuries. His condition was considered fair.

Barone landed the decisive blow in the sixth round of the scheduled 10-round feature.

PLANS FOR NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE REACH STALEMATE

By The Associated Press

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 20—Plans for reviving the Mountain State Baseball league were stalemated today after Ray Ryan, of Hillsboro, O., former league president, held a meeting in an attempt to form a new class C circuit.

Representatives from cities in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky had been invited to attend, but spokesman for only three cities prepared to field teams—Logan, Charlestown, and Portsmouth, O.—attended.

"We didn't make much headway," Ryan said, "There's nothing to do now but wait and see. Everything's up in the air."

BISHOPS PREPARE OBERLIN DEFENSE

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 20 — Coach Glenn Fraser is sharpening up his Ohio Wesleyan squad's pass defense in preparation for Saturday's battle at Oberlin.

Last week Oberlin upset a heavily favored Muskingum team with three touchdown passes after tying a strong Wabash college eleven via the air route the previous week.

The Battling Bishops emerged from their defeat by Denison without serious injury. Jim "Tubby" Madison, who missed the Denison game with the flu, is expected to see some action at his tackle spot against the Yeomen.

Fraser said today, "Oberlin really has come back, and we are expecting a tough battle Saturday."

Wesleyan won the 1946 game, 13-0, but Oberlin holds the advantage in the 19 meetings of the teams with 13 victories, five defeats, and one tie.

Pool Can Set Record With 3 More Catches

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 — Big Barney Poole of Mississippi, who caught 13 passes for 95 yards last week, has only to wrap himself around three more to set a new collegiate record in pass receptions and join his batterymate, Charley Conerly, among the record holders.

The old mark of 50 was set by Henry Stanton at Arizona in 1941. Stanton's standard of 820 yards, however, is not endangered. Poole has gained 473 yards with his 48 catches, well behind the yardage leader, Bill Swiacki of Columbia, whose 517 yards to date already surpasses the 1946 high of 497 yards.

Poole has caught eight touchdown passes from Conerly, who set a new record for pass completions last week by getting his 120th bullseye.

PLEASANT CAGERS SET FOR OPENER TOMORROW

Pleasant cagers open their season tomorrow night with a strong Pleasant Alumni team featuring such stars as Don Butt, Kenny Somerlot, Bob Debolt, Don Almendinger and the Cusick and Ryder brothers.

Starting lineup for Pleasant: Charles Meyers and Randy Dickason, forwards, Jack Merchant, center, and Dick Green and Ron Gorby, guards.

MORRAL CAGERS WIN

Morral cagers edged Harpster, 14-13, at Morral Tuesday night. The Morral reserves squeaked by on the same one-point margin, 17-16, but Morral Junior high topped New Bloomington, 16-12.

Wrestling Tonight at Armory

Plenty of action is expected tonight at the Marion Armory when promotor Fishbaugh presents a card he is sure to be one o fhis est in months. For the two hour main event Capt. Mike Mihalskis and Paul Orth have signed on the dotted line and the fans well know what to expect, especially after last Thursday's mix up when the Captain dumped Orth for a fall in the opening match. Both Orth and Capt. Mike are just about the roughest and wildest in the wrestling game today. Balk Estes will make a return to the Marion mat after several months to take on the rough Rex Mobley in the one hour semi-final. Mobley subbed for Frankie Clemons last September and lost a close match to Buck Weaver but the rough Alabamian gave a good account of himself and should make Balk put out everything to win. Both matches are for the best two out of three falls. A ten minute prelim between Jackie Wilson and Tommy Irvine will open the show at 8:30. Call 2745 after six for your best ringside seats.

Canton - Massillon Classic Seen Top Game of Weekend

By JAMES J. DAILEY
United Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Nov. 20—Canton McKinley's Bulldogs vs. Massillon's Tigers—one of the few high school games of national interest—today was the top game of the weekend in a waning football season that saw most schools doffing moleskins for basketball trunks.

The 52nd renewal of the game in Canton's Fawcett stadium is a toss-up, in spite of the Bulldogs' eight won and one lost record against Massillon's six and three. The record shows that over the years the Bulldogs won 25 while Massillon captured 22. Four games were ties.

Although Massillon has the poorer record, being beaten by Warren Harding, Cleveland Latin and Barberton, the school's followers believe they had a tougher schedule than McKinley, loser only to Canton Lincoln this year.

At Cleveland a good case could be made for the Cathedral Latin-Rhodes tilt as the game of the week even though it lacks the tradition of the Canton battle. The case will be proven if Massillon beats Canton, as the Tigers were beaten by the Cathedral Latins.

Latin won the earlier division championship of the Cleveland Senate to win the right to play Rhodes, western champs. Latin, loser only to Cleveland Holy Name, 7-6, has the better record of the two, winning eight and losing one while Rhodes won seven, tied one, and lost one. However, Rhodes licked Holy Name 18 to 6.

COLUMBUS AD MAN DIES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Funeral services will be held Friday for Harvey R. Young, Columbus Dispatch advertising director, vice president and director who died yesterday of a heart ailment.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

ONCE upon a time there was a young girl troubled by thoughts of death and immortality.

These thoughts darkened her sunbeam spirit like clouds that mass and pass across a summer sky.

She was an odd little girl with a hobgoblin face, auburn hair and boguish eyes "the color of the sherry the guest leaves in the glass."

On a visit to Philadelphia in 1854 when she was 23 she met and fell in love with a minister who was 40, married and the father of two children.

Dealt "an imperial thunderbolt" by this meeting, the impressionable young lady returned to her home in Amherst, Mass., and did what heartbroken damsels were expected to do then in old New England—settle down for a long career of respectable spinsterhood.

BOYLE

Some people would think it a poor kind of love she hugged to her heart. There is no proof that the minister ever shared her ardor or that they ever so much as kissed. She saw him only two or three times more before his death in 1882.

Yet today this is probably the most celebrated and controversial love affair in American literary history—the story behind the life of Emily Dickinson, the lonely old maid whom many regard as the finest woman poet in the English language.

COMPRESSING HER AGONY into compact phrases that light up the world of the spirit like lightning flashes, she put down in poetry unlike any the world had ever seen the long grief of a maid obsessed by love and eternity.

She withdrew more and more from life, and for 15 years before her death in 1886 she dressed only in white, symbol of the brideship earth had denied her but which she felt she would know through immortality.

Her neighbors felt Emily was "queer," and there is no doubt that same modern psychiatrist would enjoy exploring her with compass and Freud.

But the people who love Emily Dickinson—and count me among them—would accept her own statement that her life was "too simple and stern to embarrass any."

The vast store of unpublished poetry found in her antique rosewood desk at her death has revealed a great spirit dwelt unrecognized in the "white ghost of Amherst."

Anyone who has ever had to struggle with loss and frustration catches from the cryptic verse of Emily Dickinson a morsel of the tremendous courage with which she turned her own hopeless dilemma into an immortal spiritual victory.

PLAYING ON BROADWAY now is Dorothy Gardner's "Eastward of Eden," the third drama to be built around the bare bones of the unfulfilled love the great-souled little poet had for her unadventurous minister. The theme somehow haunts playwrights.

Beatrice Straight enacts Emily in a memorable manner, but Emily—who disdained prominence in her own life and called publication "the auction of the mind"—is really as out of place on Broadway as she would be pitching for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Those who want to really know her still must make a solitary pilgrimage through the disjointed wonderland of her poetry and incomparable letters. And it's worth the journey, for what Daniel Boone was to the American wilderness Emily Dickinson is to the frontier of the human spirit.

There is no better guide than this small old maid who wrote that "hope is the thing with feathers that perches in the soul, and sings the tune without the words, and never stops at all."

Bucyrus Mayor Asks For New City Hall

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 20—The escape Tuesday of a youthful prisoner from the women's cell of City jail, the fourth such escape to be made in the same manner, prompted Mayor R. L. Hertzer to launch another move toward realization of a new city hall.

Mayor Hertzer told council Tuesday that escapes from the insecure city jail had caused much embarrassment to the police. He urged consideration be directed toward a modern city building. The finance committee agreed to meet with the mayor for a special session Monday.

In the meantime, the escaping prisoner, John Franklin Albright, 19, was back behind bars, having been re-arrested within 24 hours of his escape along the Pennsylvania shortline railroad track south of the city. He was placed in the regular cell block on the first floor to await hearing on grand larceny charges.

RAILWAYS TO ASK STRIKE MEDIATION

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20—Three railroad unions pushed demands for pay boosts and rule changes with strike ballots today as negotiations with the nation's leading carriers broke down.

Issuance of the ballots—by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America—brought an immediate announcement from the carriers that bargaining had collapsed and the national mediation board would be asked to intervene.

The management statement was issued by the Western Railways association in Chicago, where negotiations had been carried on by the carriers and five railroad operating brotherhoods. Last week the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the order of railway conductors agreed on a 15½-cent hourly raise and four changes in working rules.

Alvanley Johnston, head of the Locomotive Engineers, pointed out that the referendum would take about a month. Approval of strike action would result in the dispute then automatically going to the national mediation board.

He said the three unions wanted to continue rule change discussion before even taking up the 30 per cent wage demand.

The Carrier association, speaking for 132 class one railroads, said the unions "departed from the spirit of the railway labor act" in announcing the strike ballot while negotiations were still in progress.

A state issued by the group said the Brotherhoods had been offered 15½ cents — the same granted non-operating Brotherhoods by an arbitration board last September—and "certain concessions" on their rule demands.

Oversight Delays Sale of New Tags

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—An oversight of the legislature would prevent the state from putting ... auto license tags on sale un... April 1, the day on which motorists are required to display ...

Adj. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins so ... Edward T. Fogo, registrar ... motor vehicles, today.

The legislature, however, is expected to correct the situation in a special session next month.

The attorney general explained that a new law, fixing a flat fee of $10 for passenger car license plates, becomes effective April 1. It would be illegal, he said, for the registrar to charge the new fee before April 1. The tags customarily have been put on sale March 1.

The cost of tags at present is based on the automobile's horsepower.

Republicans Take Lead In Galion City Council

GALION, O., Nov. 20—The Republican party won a four to three advantage in the Galion city council for the first time in 23 years as a Crawford county election board recount today gave John A. Anker, Republican, a third ward victory.

The recount gave Anker an 89 vote margin over Richard L. Ganshorn, Democrat, incumbent, who was announced victor by a seven vote Nov. 5.

New Labor Bills On Way, Hartley Says

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Two new labor bills, one designed to assure a worker's "right to work" and the other aimed at unions who act "in restraint of trade, will be introduced in congress next January, Rep. Fred J. Hartley (R-NJ) said last night.

Hartley, co-author of the Taft-Hartley act, told the state Chamber of Commerce's 54th annual meeting that hearings on the bills will start shortly after the regular congressional session opens.

He said one proposal would make it a federal offense to "interfere with a worker in his civil right to work," but will not interfere with his right to strike.

The second measure, Hartley said, is aimed at James C. Petrillo's ban on making records after Dec. 31—and may also apply if John L. Lewis attempts to close the coal mines again. He said this bill was designed to apply the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts to "labor unions clearly in restraint of trade."

DALLAS, Nov. 20—Edward M. Harris, 72, an armature winder for the Dallas Street Car and Bus system, told fellow workers a week before his death Nov. 7, "I'm too poor to retire." Today his temporary administrator, C. W. Hudson, repotred Harris left a $50,000 estate—$25,125 of it hidden in his East Dallas quarters.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Selective forward tendencies were continued in today's stock market although many leaders did little or nothing.

Another big batch of extra and increased dividends helped a few favorites but failed to buoy many issues concerned.

Dealings slowed after a moderately active opening and trends were slightly uneven near midday.

American woolen and Lorillard Tobacco stiffened in the wake of pleasing disbursements. Ahead at intervals were General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Smelting, Southern Railway and Pennsylvania Railroad. Occasional laggards were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Philips Petroleum, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Boeing, Westinghouse, General Electric and Chesapeake and Ohio.

RODEHEAVER SPEAKS AT EPWORTH CHURCH

Former Billy Sunday Aide Closes School of Religion.

Approximately 750 persons of Marion and the county were present at Epworth Methodist church Wednesday night to hear Homer Rodeheaver, famous in the field of gospel music, and for many years song director for the Billy Sunday evangelistic campaigns. He was brought to Marion for the forum hour of the final session of the School of Religion and Life for Epworth church and Methodist churches of the county. The school consisted of five successive Wednesday night sessions with classes on various phases of the general theme, "Teaching Everyday Religion," preceding a forum hour each school night. Dr. V. E. Busler, Epworth church pastor, presided.

Directing of congregational singing was supplemented by his own accompaniment on the trombone, Mr. Rhodeheaver's specialty. The music was interspersed with his comments on virtues of interdenominational harmony, importance of Christian friendliness, salvation for sinners, the temperance question, and recollections of his experiences while associated with Rev. Sunday. He mentioned also his days at Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware. Included among his solo numbers was a new melody by another composer, "I Remember an Old Refrain," which he sang here for its first presentation to an Ohio audience. His trombone solo, "The Holy City," was played as an offertory. Accompanying at the organ and at the piano were Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence and Mrs. Morris Kline.

At the beginning of the forum hour, credit cards for the courses offered by the school were given out by Miss Margaret Huffman, associate dean.

through the committee by John H. Amen, attorney for Meyers.

Amen wanted to know whether Lamarre had signed a letter dated Sept. 27 of this year listing approximately $18,000 worth of repayments of loans which the letter said Meyers had made to Lamarre and his wife.

Meyers has told reporters that money which Lamarre testified he "kicked back" from his salary was actually due him in repayment of personal loans.

"It's obvious I signed the letter because the photostat indicates it," Lamarre said adding that Meyers "asked me to send him this letter to carry out the story we had agreed to tell."

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) wanted to know whether Lamarre and his wife, who was formerly Meyers' secretary, had borrowed money from Meyers.

"That is absolutely false," Lamarre said. "I never at any time borrowed any such sums from General Meyers."

Aviation Electric Sold for $7,000

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 20—Until March 1946, a 190 by 140-foot one-story building at the Dayton municipal airport housed the Aviation Electric Co., a firm that senate war investigating subcommittee witnesses have testified was owned by Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired air force procurement officer, whose alleged business dealings during wartime are under probe.

At present, the building, which was leased from the city of Dayton for $225 a month, is used by the Unidev company, owned by Gordon Setter, a local businessman, who purchased Aviation Electric's physical property last year for a price reported by Setter as $7,000.

"The machinery was appraised at twice that much," he related today, "and I was astonished at the asking price since the company appeared to be making money. However, B. H. Lamarre, the company president, told me he was anxious to get into another business."

While he was negotiating with Lamarre men, who said they were from Republic Aviation Corp., were checking the company's books, Setter said.

Westinghouse Output Sets Peacetime High

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Westinghouse Electric Corporation's production volume set a new peacetime record in October and "required the equivalent of a 53-mile-long freight train to ship it," Gwilym A. Price, president, said yesterday.

In a statement issued following a meeting of the company's board of directors, Price said the month's output was exceeded only by a few peak war months.

He added that six divisions shipped a larger volume of products in October than in any previous month including the war period.

Home appliance shipments totaled 1,263 carloads last month compared with a typical pre-war monthly shipment of 698 cars in 1941, Price said. He added that most of the production was accounted for by refrigerators, ranges and laundromats, in that order.

The company's employment reached a new peacetime high of 105,574 compared with 104,552 in September and a prewar peak of 76,918 in November, 1941, Price said.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Ohio strip-mine operators today were in agreement on a "wait and see" attitude over a new state law requiring a $100 per acre bond for reclamation of mined soil.

The new law becomes effective Jan. 1 and R. L. Ireland, Ohio Coal association president, said the operators agreed in a closed meeting here yesterday to observe results of the law before deciding on possible court action to test its validity.

Some 200 strip mine owners attended the meeting, described by Ireland as largest by "strippers" in many years.
